TidsbilledeSlottet i Wijnendale

Syd for Brügge ligger det befæstede slot Wijnendale, i dag en del af byen Torhout i Vest-Flandern (West-Vlaanderen).

Den første kendte bebyggelse på stedet var en borg bygget af træ af Robrecht de Fries, greve af Flandern, i 1085.

Slottet har gennem tiderne været residens for blandt andet greverne af Flandern, lensherrerne af Namur, hertugerne af Kleef, og lensherrerne af Neuburg.

Den 24.maj 1940 var slottet rammen om et for det belgiske kongehus afgørende møde.

I mødet deltog foruden kong Leopold III blandt andre dronning Elisabeth, den britiske admiral Keyes, udenrigsminister Paul-Henri Spaak, og forsvarsminister Denis.

Formålet med mødet var at overtale den belgiske konge til at forlade landet for at undgå, at han blev krigsfange i sit eget land.

Kongen nægtede at forlade landet, hvilket efter krigens afslutning førte til en langvarig krise for kongehuset, der endte med kongens abdikation i 1950. Han efterfulgtes af sønnen Baudouin.
